

So for each of the concepts, we are going to ask you a series of questions before we ever get to the lesson material. The goal of asking you these questions is to get you thinking about the material, maybe generating your own questions. There's no right or wrong answer. We're really just trying to get you to think a little bit before we get started.